Can you say ACTIVE?!

The growing popularity of active retirement communities in the Midwest began with Del Webb's Sun City right here in Huntley. Our residents are very active and often outpace the younger crowd with their very busy schedules!

Many baby boomers are finding that 55+ active adult communities are not what they were in their parent's day. Communities like Sun City are thriving and alive — with access to better health services, pools and recreation facilities, social activities, walking and biking paths, golf courses, group travel and so much more.

Of course, the great thing about Sun City is that its made up of a very eclectic mix of couples and individuals. There are younger residents, older residents and everything in between. There are some who are very physically active in sports while others prefer to stay mentally stimulated with social clubs, intellectual games or attending classes and lectures. And still there are others whose idea of activity involves shopping or meeting friends and family at a local restaurant.

Why is Huntley's Sun City Location so Popular?

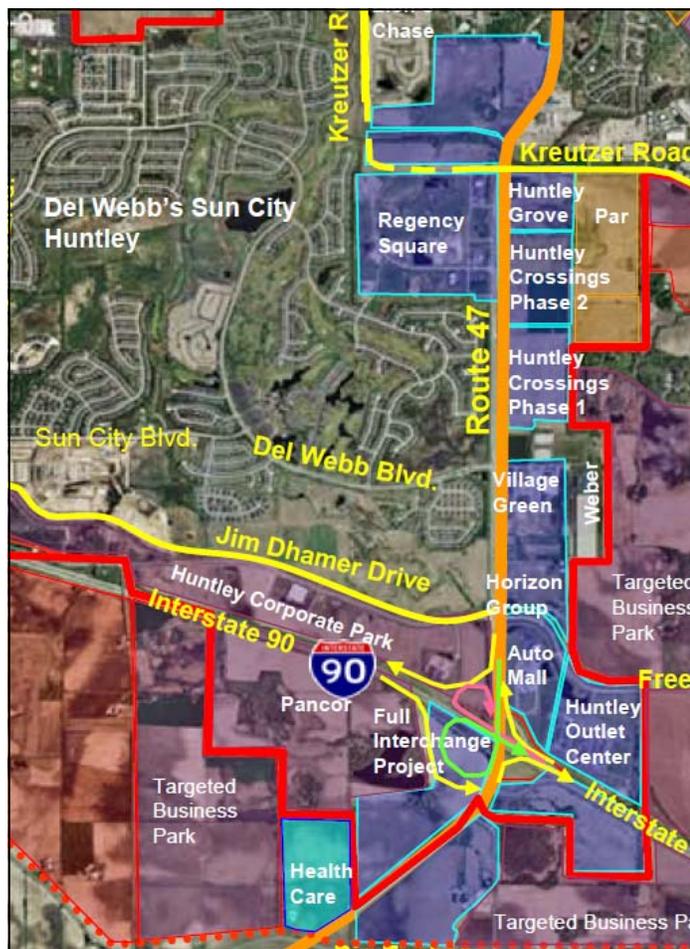

The level of amenities in Sun City Huntley reigns supreme to any other active adult community in the Chicago area.

Sun City Huntley is home to an 18-hole golf course, large tennis facility, 3 swimming pools, softball field, woodworking shop, fishing lake and a large natural park, among many other great amenities.

Sun City Huntley's 5,750 homes makes it an ideal active adult community to find other residents who share similar interests and hobbies.

Sun City Huntley has over 80 different charter clubs and interest groups plus numerous hobby rooms, meeting areas and a ballroom.

Most Illinois residents choose to stay in the state after the age of 55 and into their retirement years. For many, the lure of staying close to kids and grandkids is too much to leave the state. Still, for many other residents of Illinois active retirement communities the reason is they simply do not want to retire. Unlike many of the active retirement communities in the South, many of the residents of active adult communities in Illinois are still working full or part time. And, Sun City Huntley residents remain very close to their families, with a steady stream of sons, daughters, and grandkids visiting Huntley on a daily basis. As a result, we recommend that developers cater to people with active adult lifestyles and the traditional family too.

Del Webb's Sun City in Huntley is adjacent to the Route 47 commercial corridor, and directly north of the new full interchange at I-90 and Route 47.

If you are a retail business interested in catering to an active and attentive crowd, you will find a wide variety of outlots and lease space available in the direct vicinity.
